The attempt to "square" the charge of embezzlement against Charles H. Boyce failed completely yesterday in Justice Savage's court. Feeling some delicacy in sitting in the case, owing to his position as prosecuting witness in the blackmail case against H. H. Boyce, Justice Savage called upon Justice Marshall of Burbank to preside. When the case was called at 10 o'clock, W. T. Williams, Esq., counsel for the defendant, announced his inability to proceed, owing to the necessity for his presence in Judge Shaw's court.

of embezzlement against Charles H. Boyce failed completely yesterday in Justice Savage's court. Feeling some delicacy in sitting in the case, owing to his position as prosecuting witness in the blackmail case against H. H. Boyce, Justice Savage called upon Justice Marshall of Burbank to preside. When the case was called at 10 o'clock, W. T. Williams, Esq., counsel for the defendant, announced his inability to proceed, owing to the necessity for his presence in Judge Shaw's court.

The examination was begun at 10 o'clock by the introduction of Officer Wallin of the police detective force, who testified in regard to the call.

made by Mrs. Ada Eubanks at police headquarters, and the complaint made by her to himself, and others in his presence, against the defendant. She told him about leaving the city last August to join her husband in Seattle and how she left her home in East Los Angeles in charge of the defendant, to look after it in her absence. She told him about finding the house dismantled of all her household goods when she came back, a few weeks ago, and asked the assistance of the police in recovering her property and bringing the thief to justice. She called number of times, and talked at great length about the matter. Detective Wallin was detailed to work up the case, and went with Mrs. Eubanks to the second-hand store of the Cliffords Bros., at No. 228 South Spring street, where she identified a gasoline stove as her property. The officer was informed by one of the Cliffords that the stove had been bought by them from a house on Olive street, and though Mrs. Eubanks must be mistaken about it. She insisted, however, that it was her stove, and there were several other conversations at police headquarters

It was finally ascertained that Mrs. Eubanks was correct. While the stove had been bought from Olive street still it had before that been sold to that house by the other Clifford, and was Mrs. Eubanks' property. The witness then related how other articles were found at the second-hand store and identified by Mrs. Eubanks. He became thoroughly satisfied about the guilt of the defendant, and suggested to Mrs. Eubanks that the proper course for her to pursue was to call on the District Attorney and state her case while she did. That constituted his

Mrs. Boyce, the complaining witness, then took the stand. She disclosed her reluctance to testify from the start, and became involved in contradictions from which it was impossible to extricate either herself or the defendant. She stated in response to preliminary questions that she and her husband own the house in East Los Angeles from which Boyce took the furniture. She left the city August 21st. of last year and the defendant was entrusted with the keys, and the privilege of sleeping in the house. She returned to the city a few weeks ago.

Question: Did you find your house all right? asked Mr. Diehl.

Answer: The furniture was sold.

Q.: To whom was it sold?

A.: To Mr. Clifford.

Q.: By whom?

A.: He told me by Mr. Boyce.

Q.: Did you find any of it at Mr. Clifford's?

A.: Yes, sir.

Q.: Did you give Mr. Boyce author-

Q: Did you not swear positively as the time you swore out the complaint that you did not?

A: I did not think at that time I ever had given him any authority.

Q: Do you not remember that you were asked the direct question in the District Attorney's office?

A: Well, yes.

Q: How did you answer?

A: I answered that I had not.

Q: Why you explain now it is you are now in doubt and was not where the complaint was made?

A: (Witness confused): Well, Mr. Boyce says I wrote to him giving him authority.

Q: He claims the authority was writing then, does he?

A: Yes, sir.

Q: And you have had a conversation with the defendant since the complaint was made?

A: Yes, sir. He told me he sold the property, and what he did with the money. He said he sold it about the last of November. He explained

A: Yes, sir. I don't know the date exactly.

Q: What did you reply?
A: I wrote him I did not care about renting it. Mr. Eubanks burned the letter.

Q: Do you know Officer Wallin?
A: Only as I saw him at the station and he is no gentleman. He spoke to me very rudely.

Q: Do you remember stating to him at the police station that you gave the defendant no authority to sell your furniture?
A: Yes.

Q: Mr. Williams made a long-winded effort to prevent this line of questioning on the ground that the State cannot impeach its witnesses.

The defense rested without introducing any evidence, and the defendant was held to answer. The Court in announcing his decision said that the evidence showed a crime to have been committed, and he had just cause to believe the defendant guilty of having committed it. The bail was fixed at $800, the old bail being allowed to remain.

THE DISBARMENT PROCEEDINGS AGAINST HORACE BELL.

Strong Pressure Brought to Bear on Judge Cheney, but He Stands Firm in Support of the Dignity of His Official Proceedings—The Hearing Continued to Saturday Morning Next.

The disbarment proceedings against Horace Bell, Esq., before Judge Cheney, attracted a good many attorneys to the courtroom yesterday at 1 o'clock, and it is proving to be a much more serious matter to Mr. Bell than he and his friends supposed it would be. The weight of several attorneys was thrown into the scales to influence the Court by the weight of eloquent argument and legal assistance; but Judge Cheney took his course with dignity and firmness. He showed clearly that he feels that Mr. Bell has done something which demands reprobation, and he outlined the position with unmistakable precision. The scene in the courtroom was quite dramatic from first to last.

When court convened Horace Bell was in the courtroom, and sat a silent spectator to the proceedings. He was represented by Thomas C. Under, Esq., Anson Brunson, Esq., C. F. Cronin, Esq., and Frederick Stanford, Esq.

Clerk Crane read the citation, which set forth the facts already familiar to the public, also Mr. Bell's visit to Judge Cheney's courtroom, March 26th, to secure a revolver and belt belonging to a client, Benoit Renault. The document details the conversation which ensued, ending in the defendant insulting the Court and running out of the courtroom, stating that he would make it a personal matter with him. It declares the defendant's conduct to have been of such a character that he should show cause why he should not be disbarred or suspended from the practice of the law in the courts.

When the reading was concluded Mr. Winder presented a long answer to the citation, in which the defendant disclaims having had any intention to insult the Court, and apologized for his conduct. He states that he considered the refusal of the Court to let him have the property into a reflection upon his character, and that he was thus led to hasty utterances which he has regretted.

The Court: You file that as an answer to the citation?

Mr. Winder: Yes, sir. And I say to Your Honor that the defendant in this case, while there may have been matters that might be urged to a defense, has felt the better to come into the court and make a frank, manly and honest disavowal of any intent to commit contempt. He was a gallant soldier in the war, on the opposite side to myself. While I have not been here long, I have known him a long time, and am satisfied he had not any intention of committing any contempt or violation of his duties as an attorney. If Your Honor does not consider the answer sufficient, we ask that we may be permitted to introduce testimony.

be stricken from the rolls without notice—without a hearing. But this court is bound by statutes. The Court has even enlarged the rule of procedure. The Court proceeds upon matters in its own knowledge. In order that it might not do an injustice, the Court vacated its original order. The Court is naturally desirous of doing justice. It happens in every place in the world that heated words are used. In heated arguments words are uttered that should not be uttered. The Court itself undoubtedly is irascible at times, but this Court is always ready to do justice. Yet it is within the knowledge of the Court in this case that the language was entirely uncalculated. What issue is there for a jury to try? The statute gives no right for a jury trial. Certainly, in light of this answer, I can conceive no reason for such a course.

Mr. Cronin: Now, Your Honor, I request that you have some of your fellow-judges present.

The Court: There is nothing they can pass on; the matter is within the direct knowledge of the Court. I must take the responsibility in this case. I will say that I have already asked some of them, and they declined to act. I have no disposition not to give a further hearing, and will set Saturday morning next at 10 o'clock.

There was a general discussion over the affair as the crowd passed out of the courtroom, and it seemed to be the general opinion that the defendant has gotten himself into an awkward predicament.

Upon the answer were appended the names of attorneys for the defendant, of Horace Bell, Esq., Messrs. Brunson, Wilson and Lamme, Frederick Stanford, Esq., R. H. Chipman, Esq., Messrs. Smith, Winder & Smith, Messrs. Hutton & Swanwick, Mays Wicks, Esq., W. T. Williams, Esq., H. K. S. O'Malley, Esq., H. M. Mitchell, Esq., and C. F. Cronin, Esq.

COURT NOTES.

Edelman Forgery Indictments Dismissed—New Cases.

The forgery indictments returned by the late Grand Jury against Henry W. and B. W. Edelman, charging them with forging signatures on county warrants, were made a few days ago. Of these indictments three were against Ben Edelman and four against Henry Edelman. The Court sustained the demurrer to the indictments. The ground of the objection to the indictment was a technical one, counsel contending that the documents alleged to have been forged were irregular. The leaves against Henry Edelman the indictment charging him with fraudulently presenting claims the demurrer was sustained. The case of Schmidt vs. Desté, which has been on trial before Judge Shaw for several days past, was argued yesterday and judgment rendered for the defendant. It was an action to quiet the title to certain real property, and about winds up the long list of litigations in which the parties to the suit have been engaged.

The trial of Sam Kee on a charge of robbery was resumed in Judge Cheney's court yesterday morning and continued during the forenoon, several witnesses being examined. It went over at noon until this morning.

Edward J. Deane filed an application for appointment as guardian of Sanford M. Deane.

Francisco J. Jourdan began suit against the Citizens' Transfer Company for $1400 for the use of certain premises.

A petition was filed for the probate of the will of Gustavus Jockruck, the estate being valued at $7000.

S. G. McConnell and wife began suit against the Temple-street Cable Railway Company for $10,000 damages for injuries sustained by Mrs. McConnell, April 3d, by being thrown off a car.

PUBLIC LIBRARY.

Meeting of the Board of Directors Yesterday Afternoon.

The board of directors of the Los Angeles Public Library met yesterday afternoon, President G. A. Dobinson in the chair, and Directors F. H. Howard, J. Mills Davies and H. Jay Hanchette and the Librarian, Miss Tessa L. Kelso, present.

The Librarian reported that during the month of March 648 new books and three periodicals had been added; that the circulation had increased to 11,436 volumes, and that 66 new names had been added to the register. The daily average of books given out was 369, an increase of 19 per day over the month of February. The directors expressed themselves as of the opinion that no library of a like size, under similar circumstances, could show a record equal to that of the Los Angeles Public Library.

The committee on branch libraries reported that it had investigated the matter in all its phases, and had considered the expense, and had come to the conclusion that nothing could be done until after the next appropriation. It was decided to ask the Council to set aside enough money at the next levy to establish branches at the South End, Boyle Heights, East Los Angeles and the West End.

After the consideration of several other matters pertaining to the routine of the library, the board adjourned.

STATE AND COAST.

Many of those who have visited the ostrich farm at Los Angeles or the one at Pasadena have looked with much interest at the huge birds found there. They will be still more interested when they learn that $20,000 of plumes were produced last year from three farms in Southern California.

The Oakland Times says of the great Estadillo grant of San Leandro, several millions of dollars of value of land exclusive of improvements, not a vestige remains in the ownership of the Estadillo family. In the early days squatters jumped the land, and this litigation, together with the litigation forced upon the owner by the United States to prove his title swept away all the property.

Not long since a Fresno jury convicted a Chinaman of murder and he was sentenced to death by the Court. A white man charged with a like crime, and even more damning evidence adduced at the trial, was only convicted of manslaughter and sentenced to 10 years' imprisonment. An opportunity is now afforded a Fresno jury to pass judgment upon a negro charged with the crime of murder. We shall await the findings in this case with interest. [Fresno Republican.]

The Court: I understand your motion is a trial by jury. The right to disbarment is inherent in the Court. Opportunity should be given for a hearing. I agree that no one should

If you cannot go out to the Raymond and spend a day, a week, or a month, or the whole season, then go out and stay a few hours. EMIN PASHA has entered the German service in Africa.

A SPECIAL ARTIST OF THE TIMES is now engaged upon a fine oil painting to be entitled "Our Position Is Impregnable." The picture will present a striking view of a regular old-time stake-and-ride fence.

WISCONSIN Republicans are reported to be surprised at the sweeping victory of the Democrats in Milwaukee.

They attribute it to the bitter fight made by the Catholic and Lutheran priests against the Bennett compulsory education law.

The reopening of the electric road will be a great convenience to the residents on Pico Heights, a healthy and desirable section of the city, which has suffered much through the shutting down of the Howland system.

If the new company will run frequent cars, and run early and late, they will build up this section and make money.

Work on the Hammel & Denker tract on the northwest corner of Spring and Third streets, north of Third, is only a very few years since a store on Spring street, north of First, was a rarity.

Now the street is built up almost solid with stores as far as Sixth. So the city grows in spite of dull times.

The Mexican Congress was opened yesterday. President Diaz said that good effects are expected to follow the Pan-American convention; explained the satisfactory condition of international relations between Mexico and the United States, including the Lower California annexation rumor; announced that Mexico would encourage railroad building; that the financial condition of the republic is flourishing, and recommended retrenchment in the expenses of the government.

FIFTY-NINE carloads of potatoes arrived in San Francisco, from the East, a few days ago. It is no wonder the agents who have charge of "California on Wheels" find it very difficult to explain to eastern people how a State can be good for agriculture which has to import such large quantities of the necessities of life. If our farmers did not have to depend on grasping, speculative middlemen, they would raise more "spuds." Let us have a market-house!

Some explanation of the number of unemployed in San Francisco is furnished by the statement that plenty of idle men at Fresno are offered twenty-five to twenty-eight dollars per month and board to work in vineyards and orchards, but refuse to work for less than $30. In his address before the State Board of Trade, referred to yesterday, W. H. Mills stated that a very large proportion of the unemployed in San Francisco were unworthy and idle.

It seems that the eminent local statesman and exceedingly hungry "politician," H. T. Payne, late of the dismantled Trombone-Smith camp, has had his importance rewarded after all. He has been appointed to the high and mighty dignity of a storekeeper in the house of the lord of the Internal Revenue Department to wit, Mr. Collector Sears. There is a rift, suspicion, not to say a well-grounded belief, that this appointment was not in accord with the wishes of either Senator Stanford or Representative Vandever. The towering demands of Harmony are not to be spurned in this high-handed manner!

The Minnesota Journal, referring to the heavy rainfall which California has experienced this season, draws a contrast between the climates of California and Minnesota, much to the advantage of the latter. The Journal says:

"Surely we may dispense with the oft-repeated California deluge when we have such a climate and do not have to dread the approach of a long, dreary, stupid, rainy season."

Of course, climate, like eating, is a matter of taste, but we will venture to assert that there are not a dozen Minnesotans in California who do not prefer this "long, dreary, stupid, clammy, rainy" climate to their own.

The Journal evidently writes upon a subject of which he knows nothing but from hearsay.

MARKHAM IN SAN DIEGO.

A well-informed political investigator from San Diego reports having had, recently, a large number of interviews with Republican citizens of that place, and says that the consensus of them shows a well-nigh unanimous sentiment for Markham for Governor. The suggestion of a San Diego man for Congress also naturally meets with favor there; but the use of John R. Berry's name in this connection has no warrant of authority at all. Many Republicans who do not care to be quoted in print nevertheless privately declare themselves for the Los Angeles favorite for the first place. "Everything is working all right down there," said our informant. According to the same authority, as things are now going, Markham will get a heavy support from San Diego, and that without any extraneous effort. The good will of the Republicans of that county is Col. Markham's strongest backing. It is not necessary that the pacifian stream be brought into requisition to persuade them.

Further on the same subject, a private letter to the editor of THE TIMES says: "You can say that Markham is developing a great deal of strength at San Diego, and that without any effort on the part of his friends. His cause gains strength at the mere mention of his name, by virtue of the good reputation he everywhere sustains. He has a much stronger hold on Republicans than any other man who is mentioned as a possible candidate." This correspondent is in the best possible position to speak advisedly on the subject.

THE COUNTY FUNDS.

The Herald yesterday published an article on the county funds, which contained several erroneous statements and conclusions.

The Herald says that the fiscal year is merely well begun. On the contrary, the fiscal year ends on the 30th of June.

As to the sweeping charges of reckless extravagance of expenditure and emptiness of exchequer which the Herald endeavors to make the present Republican board responsible for, as a Republican board, such comparison is not only odious, but unwarranted by the facts.

The previous board—a Democratic one—overdrew almost all the funds, the total of such overdrafts aggregating about twenty thousand dollars, which amount the present board has had to make good. After settling up this indebtedness, our Republican board has had enough money to pay all current expenses, repair the unprecedented damage caused by the big flood and have a surplus on hand. There has, of course, been a big draft on the courthouse fund, but at the end of the present fiscal year there will be a surplus—something which was unknown under previous administration.

One leading point made by the Herald is in regard to the large amount received by the county for the road fund, but our contemporary apparently overlooks the fact that the city does not contribute to this fund.

Thus it will be seen that the present Republican county administration, though not without its faults, does not lose by comparison with previous administrations of the Democratic stripe, as the Herald would have its readers believe it does.

Among the names of possible Congressional aspirants in the Sixth District, that of John R. Berry of San Diego has been somehow included. This brings us ample authority for saying that there is, and has been, no warrant for such use of Mr. Berry's name. There never was any foundation for the story, which was apparently started in Los Angeles, San Bernardino or Sacramento for mischievous purposes. The motive is not hard to divine when we consider the quarters in which the rumor has been most industriously circulated. Mr. Berry is the editor of the San Diego Union, the newly-appointed Collector of Customs there, and has no designs upon the Congressional field.

The efforts of some public-spirited citizens to raise money for the purpose of putting unemployed men at work on the parks not having met with success, John F. Humphreys is now endeavoring to get owners of tracts of land which are growing up in weeds to rent them at a nominal rate to industrious men. This is an excellent idea for those who have teams and other necessities, though, of course, it will not benefit those who have nothing beyond a pair of willing hands. The cultivation of our vacant acres will benefit not only those who plant them, but the section at large, as one of the first questions asked by newcomers is the reason why so much land, said to be very valuable, is untitled, while there are idle men around. Meanwhile, let us have a market-house, so that these toilers may be able to obtain a fair price for the crops which they raise.

It is the general verdict of the press of the country that Sheriff Flack got too cheap. He colluded with a court official to procure a fraudulent decree of divorce to be entered against himself, upon the supposed complaint ## of his wife, when, in fact, she had no knowledge of any action having been brought in her name. Surely such action deserved more punishment than two months' imprisonment and a fine of $500, especially as the reporter who secreted himself in the jury-room while the Flack jury was in deliberation was sent to jail for 30 days and fined $250 for what was not a misdemeanor, but merely contempt of court. Flack had to give up the shirvelty, however, upon the demand of the Governor.

AMUSEMENTS.

AT THE THEATERS.—The sale of tickets opens at each house this morning for the performance to be given next week at the advertised. Mrs. HUMPHREY-SMITH'S READINGS.—The second opportunity to hear this gifted lady will be afforded at the Church of the Unity this evening. The programme includes some choice selections, and will prove attractive to the many who were present at the first entertainment, and will, in addition, draw many more who will be desirous to hear a lady who is a brilliant exponent to the ordinary run of machine-made elocutionists.

AMONG THE POLITICIANS.

There was no reply from the Democratic side of the Senate to Mr. Sherman's plain declaration as to the origin and condition of the so-called negro question. The Senator from Ohio charged, and provoked no effective reply, that if the negro were suddenly endowed with all the rights of citizenship it was the steadfast, malicious, well-planned determination of the southerners to keep him in a state of real serfdom, while nominally free, that made his citizenship with suffrage the only means of resistance.

Gov. Waterman may think that he can step from the Governor's chair into a seat in the United States Senate more easily than he could from his miner's cabin. When a millionaire gets the Senatorial seat in his bonnet, money is no object, and all means are considered fair in their desire and scramble for the distinguished honor of holding a seat in the higher branch of our national legislature. Our Waterman seems to be no exception to the general rule, and we expect to see what we shall see, and will keep our readers well posted on the situation. [San Diego Independent.]

McComas of Maryland is the author of a bill which is now pending before Congress which is intended to prevent the constant shifting of the lines of Congressional districts for political purposes. Mr. McComas does not believe in the policy of giving Congress the shaping of the districts without regard to local considerations, and proposes to let the States determine the boundaries of their districts which shall be subject to a fair method of apportionment, by providing that districts shall be made up of contiguous, adjacent and compact territory, and that the margin of difference in the population of districts in any one State shall not exceed 15,000.

Spring Races Declared Off.

The board of directors of the Agricultural Association met last evening and declared the spring race meeting off on account of the running races not filling. The trotting events were all filled, but the runners failed to materialize. The board decided to put a new fence around Agricultural Park, renovate the grand-stand and clubhouse, and make other improvements to the extent of several thousand dollars.

A COWARDLY MURDER.

A Cattleman Hiddled with Bullets in Paso del Norte.

EL PASO (Tex.), April 2.—[By the Associated Press.] At 9 o'clock tonight a most cowardly murder was committed across the river in Paso del Norte. W. S. Bolton and a man named Clayton, both cattlemen, met S. H. Cavitt, another cattleman, on the street. They picked a quarrel with him, and without giving him any warning Clayton and Bolton drew their revolvers and began firing at Cavitt, who attempted to retreat, but his assailants followed him up, continuing the fire upon him until he fell dead, riddled with bullets. Clayton and Bolton were arrested, and are now in jail at Paso del Norte. People on both sides are very indignant, and threats of lynching the murderers are openly being made. Cavitt was a very wealthy and very popular young man. A lawsuit is said to have been the cause of the affair.

A Heated Debate Over Those Silver Bow County Returns.

Democratic Senators Talking About a Republican "Conspiracy."

The bill to admit Idaho again considered in the House—The Minority's Defense of Mormonism.

By Telegraph to The Times.

WASHINGTON (D.C.), April 2.—[By the Associated Press.] Senate—Mr. Edmunds reported back the anti-trust bill in the form of a substitute, and said that as soon as the Montana election case was disposed of the bill will be taken up.

The conference report on the urgent delivery bill was presented and agreed to. The House recedes from its disagreement to the Senate amendment as to irrigation surveys, with the proviso that no part of the amount be expended in sinking wells or construction of irrigation works, and that the bill be not committed to any plan of irrigation.

The Senate then proceeded to the consideration of the Montana election case, the majority report being read by Mr. Wm. F. Sanders and Thomas C. Power, the minority report in favor of William A. Clark and Martin Maginnis.

Mr. Hoar stated the case of the part of the majority of the committee. The whole matter turned upon the question whether one set of legislators, who voted with the twenty-five Republican delegates for Sanders and Power, were legally elected deputies.

Mr. Gray, representing the minority of the committee, declared that the members of the canvassing board of Montana (the Governor, Chief Justice and Secretary of the Territory) should have been sworn in before they could receive from Silver Bow county, that they had "exhausted the authority" given to them by the statute in endeavoring to obtain it, and because they had failed in their duty to assert and declare it, from the best sources of information obtainable, and he argued that the canvassers had no authority to act on any information obtained from any source other than the election officers of the county, declaring that he had never known such a bold and flagrant act of usurpation.

THE POLICE.

MEETING OF THE BOARD OF COMMISSIONERS.

Applications for Saloon Licenses Granted and Transfers Approved—The Chief's Monthly Report—Officers Who Have Distinguished Themselves.

The Police Commissioners met in the Mayor's office yesterday, with Commissioners Collins, Dexter, Lewis and Mayor Hazard present, Commissioner Dexter presiding.

The reading of the minutes was dispensed with, and the board at once proceeded to the consideration of saloon business.

The Chief presented favorable reports on the following applications for saloon licenses, and most of them being those that had been revoked for non-payment of licenses, and being in regular form, they were granted: E. Fleur, No. 243 Aliso street; A. Belli, No. 131 Upper Main street; Peter de Grazia, No. 700 Upper Main street; A. Schwartz, No. 215 North Main street; Frank Mitchell, southwest corner of First and Los Angeles streets.

The following transfers of saloon licenses were granted: From Theo Lohman, No. 425 North Main street, to Louis Eisinger, No. 624 Daugherty, No. 101 Upper Main street, to F. Paglioli.

The following new applications for saloon licenses were read and referred to the Chief: T. H. Buett, No. 108 East First street; J. Daugherty, No. 101 Upper Main street; Rudolph Sturt, No. 517 North Main street.

The clerk reported that he had placed $25 to the credit of the reward and charity fund, as instructed by the board. Report received and filed.

A communication signed by 59 names, stating that they had never seen anything wrong about the dancing academy of Prof. H. G. Arbuckle, was read and ordered filed.

The Chief also presented the rules and regulations of the school, by request of the proprietor, who, he said, had intended that he intended to remove to another city, and did not wish any reflections cast on his character.

On motion of Commissioner Lewis, Prof. Arbuckle was allowed to continue his place, if he was not violating any of the ordinances of the city.

A communication was read from L. le Grand, a grocer on Ducommun street, complaining that Officer Roberts owed him a bill of $4.75, which he refused to pay. Referred to the Chief.

A petition was read from C. G. Baldwin, business manager of the Flower Festival Society, asking permission to stretch banners across Spring and Broadway streets, announcing the Sixth Annual Flower Festival.

Demands aggregating $434.70 were read and ordered paid.

The application of Alexander Scott Army for a position on the force was read and placed on file.

In the matter of the claim of G. G. Edwards against Officer Martin of 410 house rent, the Chief reported that the officer denied owing the bill, and as there is a dispute over it, in his opinion the courts should settle the matter.

The Chief reported that he had paid Detective Bononi for services rendered.

Chief Glass presented his monthly report, which, in addition to the details heretofore published in regard to arrests, contained the following: "I wish to make honorable mention of Officers Dugan and Bowler for the courage they have displayed in stopping two most dangerous runaways that occurred during the month in the very heart of the city. Indeed, they deserve the commendation of your honorable body and the gratitude of the public in general, since they have endangered their own lives in order to save others."

The Chief also called for a special attention to the work done by the detective department during the month. It is creditable in the highest degree, and deserves your kind consideration. By their untiring efforts they have kept San Quentin in the following criminals: George Bush, burglary, five years; James Clarke, burglary, five years; J. H. Snowden, seduction, three years; James Matson, burglary, one year; George Lewis, burglary, five years; George Hogan, arson, three years. Besides this, stolen property was recovered to the amount of $2147.05, as per receipts. The four men constituting this branch of the department work from twelve to fourteen hours a day. Our outposts also have been working from ten to twelve hours a day continuously, and deserves your kind consideration. Officer Steele also deserves great credit for his untiring efforts to secure evidence in a case of arson. Although it is very difficult to convict a person on that charge, he succeeded in sending his man to San Quentin for five years. In conclusion, I wish to say that the whole force as a body is a credit to the honorable commission who created it, and deserves the respect and confidence of the citizens of Los Angeles."

The report was received and filed, after which Commissioner Lewis moved that, in view of the fact that the detectives worked longer hours than the regular force, and their duties were of a more responsible character, besides which they frequently had to spend money out of their own pockets on public business, the commission recommend to the Council that their wages be increased to $100 per month.

At the Chief's suggestion the secretary was included in the motion.

There was no second to the motion, and, after waiting a few minutes, Commissioner Collins said that while he favored the motion, he did not think that the Council would grant a raise of $85, he would support the motion.

Commissioner Lewis intimated that the Council would probably do the cutting, but Commissioner Collins remained firm, he stated that as $85 was the highest amount that he could get a second for, he made it that figure, whereupon Commissioner Collins seconded the motion.

Mayor Hazard opposed the motion, as he did not believe it good policy to raise or lower salaries during a term of office. It is a vicious system, and he did not believe in it. He did not believe the detectives' salaries were high enough, but he would not favor increasing the expenses of the department at this time.

Commissioner Collins said that the Council had voluntarily increased the expenses by making another office, when, as a matter of fact, in his opinion, there were other places where the money could be better spent. He thought the detectives did work equal to 12 patrolmen, and he thought they should receive more money than they did.

Commissioner Lewis said it was the custom in other cities to pay the detectives more money, and he thought they should be treated the same way here, as an incentive to do good work. Mayor Hazard spoke at some length against the motion, saying that the detectives should not pay out any money, but that their expenses should come out of the secret-service fund, when Chief Glass explained that this was done when claim was put in, but that small amounts were frequently expended for which the detectives put in no demand, besides which the fund, $100 per month, was not enough to pay all the contingent expenses of the department.

Mayor Hazard stated that he believed the detectives are the most important branch of the department, and should receive better pay than they do. He would agree that if the Chief would try and get along with a few hundred more men, when vacancies occurred, that they be not filled, to let the money so saved go toward paying the detectives increased salaries.

Commissioner Lewis said he would not favor any less men. As it was, the people in his section of the city never saw a policeman unless it was when he served a tax notice or some other paper, and during the past week nine valentines had been poisoned in his neighborhood, and they could not spare a policeman to try and catch the miscreant who was doing the work.

Chief Glass stated that he would prefer to do without a woman on the department and have the detectives' wages increased, as they did good work and earned it.

A vote was then taken, and Commissioner Lewis's motion passed by a vote of 8 to 1, only Mayor Hazard voting in the negative.

The application of Officer Bevan for one week's leave of absence, on account of sickness in his family, was granted, having been approved by the Chief.

The application of Mrs. L. M. Gray, former Police Matron, asking to be reappointed, was read and filed.

Commissioner Lewis said that the nine men removed from the police force some time ago, under the retrenchment ordinance, had seen fit to print a card in one of the daily papers reflecting on the Chief of Police. The board had passed a resolution at the time of their removal, that the first vacancies should be filled from their number. He now moved that this resolution be repealed, as he did not think it good policy that these men should be reinstated at any time.

Commissioner Collins seconded the motion, which passed by unanimous vote, after which the board adjourned.
